Rtn शशि जैन से रूबरू दिल स अदल का गुफ़तगू

Rtn Prof Dr IS Dua is a professor of Eminence and is the former Chairman, Department of Botany, Panjab University Chandigarh.

He joined Rotary for the reason which speaks very high of his intellectual interests.

Q. When did you join Rotary club and what motivated you to join?

A. It was a pleasant autumn of 2009 when on a memorable afternoon, I was requested by PP Rtn Prof Dr SK Sharma to address an august gathering of Rotarians. The impact and impression of the awesome demeanour of Rotarians, their protocols, the systematic prescript of assembly and the diligent way of raising the queries left me overwhelmed. The following week Prof. Sharma told me that Rotarians wanted me to enlighten them again on a specific topic. Subsequent to these two interfaces with Rotarians, I was requested by some senior Rotarians to join Rotary and I became a prideful Rotarian in March 2010.

Q. Which of the Rotary projects have you been involved and did you enjoy doing them?

I have been the Director, International Service and Joint Secretary and I enjoyed both these positions to the brim with immense devotion and to waxing satisfaction of the Board members and fellow Rotarians. It has been a privilege to deliver 10 lectures to the highly awakened audience in our own club.

Q. Would you like to suggest some change in the working or structure of our club?

A. I have found ATHENA (Goddess of Learning, Knowledge, wisdom craft, civilisation and justice) always alive amongst the Rotarians of our club and my prayer to Waheguru is to keep this spirit burning perpetually amongst them.

Wishing you to enlighten society through your intellectual pursuits.

Fellowship at the picnic on 12th February 2023 was sponsored by the incoming board 2023-24

Our Judicial System: Beckonsan Overall Review

By: Rtn Colonel Jaspal Singh Chandoak

The present stalemate in the appointment of judges is rather unfortunate. As a result, the overall deficiency of judges is further increasing. And who suffers? Sadly the common person. Wish that this aspect is fully appreciated by the Government and the Judiciary in the larger interest of Society. It is alarming that nearly five crore cases are pending in various courts. Hope that all vacancies are filled upon a war footing within a time-bound schedule.

Some food for thought. Let's seriously emulate Argentina. In the field of football, we may take 10 years or so to qualify for the top 32. And to win the FIFA World cup, further 10 years may be an optimistic view. Let's consider the Argentinian initiative in the context of the judicial system and endeavour to introduce a similar system for overcoming pendency in our courts. Argentina has achieved dramatic success by implementing 'Prometea' software.

Juan Gustav Corvalan is the brainchild behind the dramatic success of Prometea Software in Argentina. He introduced this predictive AI (Artificial Intelligence) in the Buenos Aires Judicial System in 2017. Subsequently, it has also been adopted by the Inter-American Court of Human Rights. Under the aegis of the Prometea System, a particular judgment could be predicted within 30 seconds with over 90% accuracy based on a detailed study of similar past cases. To substantiate - two illustrations. It facilitated 1000 rulings about drunk drivers in 26 days. Similarly, it resulted in 1000 rulings about housing rights in just 45 days. Thus it proved to be a leading provider of cutting-edge advisory services.

A user-friendly interface for inputs will be an asset at all levels of the Judicial System. The potential software may relate to specific laws and list similar precedents for draft judgments. Digitization would need to be introduced in totality for admitting, scheduling and listing cases based on their comparative importance.

Our Private sector can be assigned to design an apt software system for the Indian Judicial system. Ab initio, this may be applied in a large number of general cases repetitive in nature; for example 'Tenancy'. Such an initiative will reduce the overall pendency significantly. As a result, the Judiciary will have ample time available for considering and deciding 'peculiar' cases. This needs a serious consideration. It can prove to be a meaningful and wholesome tool in grappling with the problem which the Indian judicial system is facing.

This is the era of digitization and IT. Recently, there has been a revolution in the field of 'Mobile phones' in India. A similar effort is needed in our judicial system also. Our IT experts have excelled worldwide including in the USA also. Just a green signal to them is required and they would conceive an excellent software system for our Judiciary. Thereafter be pleasantly surprised with wonders galore!

Our present Government has taken many bold initiatives in the larger interest of the Country. Let the introduction of apt software to streamline and accelerate decision-making in courts be another feather in the Government's cap. There would be ifs and buts and may be some resistance too, as it happens in introducing any 'change'. Yes, some teething troubles may also accrue. If applied in utmost sincerity, all citizens, that is, haves and have-nots would benefit. If Argentina can do it, surely India can also do it.

It was heartening indeed to hear a recent remark by a High Court that an individual should not suffer without a trial even for a 'millisecond'. In the true letter and spirit of this praiseworthy thought, legal luminaries in the Government, Judiciary and Society in general, should initiate a pragmatic overall review based on new software like in Argentina.

Modern lifelines IT and digitization should get married with the decision-making process in various courts based on new software. Looking forward to the dawn when there would be just negligible pendency in various courts.
